Course Director: J. Michael Bostwick, M.D., Brian A. Palmer, M.D., M.P.H.

After six biennial conferences in the Swiss Alps, the Aeschi group is holding its third North American conference at the world-class Sonnenalp Hotel in the Colorado Rockies. The conference is organized around a series of videos illustrating key concepts in the narratives, assessment and treatment of patients at risk for suicide. More than a dozen national and international experts teach and discuss cases, engaging in intimate and probing exchanges that relate Aeschi concepts to the clinical material in the videos. In order to preserve the collegial and safe atmosphere that has characterized all Aeschi conferences, the conference will be capped at 120 participants.

Learning Objectives

Upon conclusion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Develop enhanced skills for engaging and assessing suicidal patients in a collaborative working relationship between patient and clinician.
- Recognize the experience of the clinician in working with suicidal patients and how that can impact the care of the patient.
- Define the importance of clinician and patient developing a narrative of the patient's suicidality as the first stage in formulating a treatment plan.

Attendance at this Mayo course does not indicate nor guarantee competence or proficiency in the performance of any procedures which may be discussed or taught in this course.
